Professional Profile

Co-Lead Researcher: Environment of Peace Project: Section 4: Policy Pathways, Stockholm International Peace Research Institute (SIPRI), Stockholm – Sweden (June 01, 2021 – February 28, 2022)

Reference Person: Claire McAllister, Project Lead Environment of Peace, SIPRI, claire.mcallister@sipri.org, +46 763907697; <https://sipri.org>

Project Description and Role: The Environment of Peace Project seeks to trigger and reinforce understanding of the inextricable nexus between environmental challenges and threats to peace and security. It builds on the notion that environmental questions are central to human security, existence/survival and peaceful coexistence; thus, should be prioritised or mainstreamed in efforts towards saving succeeding generations from the scourges of war. A threat to the environment is a direct threat to human security and peace. Section 4, which I lead, translates research outcomes into policy inputs and actions. It distils key findings from the first two sections and proffers concrete suggestions on what can be done to prevent or minimise largescale risks to human security and peace; avoid pitfalls (identified in section 3), grasp opportunities and enable the most promising solutions to flourish. My role is to provide the strategic vision for the research and analysis, coordinate a team of six senior and mid-level research experts, and chart innovating policy pathways for the interconnected risks posed by environmental degradation to human security and stability. Specific tasks include:

- Co-lead the design, development, and delivery of Section 4 of the Environment for Peace (EP)
- report (to the timetable set out below):
- Set a framework for what research and stakeholder dialogues should be undertaken;
- Design a workplan for the research team;
- Scope any commissions by external contributors;
- Work with partners to develop and run stakeholder workshops (in partnership with the

- EP secretariat);
- Provide guidance and support to the research team and clear ToR for external contributors. Ensure contributions are delivered on time and to a high standard;
- Lead the drafting of Section 4; and
- Commenting on relevant draft input papers from other sections.
- Work with the other section leads to ensure consistency in approach to cross cutting questions and report narrative
- Review and comment on other sections as they develop, and the policy report once drafted.
- Support discussion with the international panel on the content of the report and wider stakeholder outreach

Tasks and Project Description: Lead a team of researchers to undertake a regional study. The study unearthed the extent to which COVID-19 has exacerbated old and ignited new drivers of violent conflict using comparative approaches and case studies in some instances. They will also assess the effectiveness of the continental (APSA/AGA), regional (RECs/RMs) and national (national infrastructures for peace) mechanisms in responding to violent conflicts in the context of the COVID-19 pandemic. The studies will also map out cross-cutting issues (e.g. human rights, gender equality, youth empowerment, climate change to name a few). The main deliverable was a regional evidence based and policy-oriented report. Tasks included: Research and reporting, team coordination, weekly meetings, writing.

Member of the Technical Committee of the Tana High Level Forum on Peace and Security in Africa, Addis Ababa - Ethiopia (2014-2016)

- The Tana High-Level Forum on Security in Africa is an annual meeting that brings together African leaders and stakeholders to engage and explore African-led security solutions. The Forum complements formal meetings of African heads of state and government by assembling them in an informal, collaborative environment. In the spirit of gatherings taking place under the Baobab tree, the Forum offers room and space for panel discussions, interaction with the floor and bilateral talks to share views and experiences in a time efficient, result-oriented and open manner. The Tana Forum promotes African-led solutions by holding discussions on the strategic and pro-active management of African peace and security issues driven by the interest to contribute to stronger ownership of these issues. Furthermore, the Forum is immersive in that it combines the worlds of academia and research with real-world, real-time experience. The result is an action-oriented and policy-
- As Member of the Technical Committee (TC) I offered technical advice to the Tana Board on the organisation of the Forum and curated strategic engagements. In Particular, I was responsible for conceptualization and agenda setting and providing advisory to the Secretariat on procedure and content to strengthen the Forum's capacity to generate fruitful discussions and give participants a meaningful experience.
