Sabrina Molinaro, MSc, PhD

October 2020 ongoing	Research Director in Public Health, Precision Medicine, Epidemiology-Institute of Clinical Physiology-National Research Council (CNR-IFC).
November 2016 ongoing	International coordinator of the European School Survey on Alcohol and Other Drugs ESPAD (49 countries - EMCDDA-EU Commission)
April 2010 ongoing	Head of the Laboratory of Epidemiology and Health Services Research, CNR-IFC (29 staff)

MANAGEMENT ACTIVITIES

She directs the Laboratory of Epidemiology and Health Services Research, the Laboratory has made possible the growth of more than 60 staff units among Researchers, Research Technicians, Research Fellows, Fellows and PhD students, to date it consists of 29 multidisciplinary units (biologists, physicians, statisticians, psychologists, economists, lawyers, mathematicians, sociologists, archaeologists, philosophers).

In recent years she has conceived and directed more than 50 Research Projects among competitive projects (European and National) and program agreements with the Presidency of the Council, Regions and PAs, Health Authorities; she has also entered into numerous collaborative projects with the European Monitoring Centre on Drugs and Drug Addiction (EMCDDA) and the Pompidou Group of the Council of Europe.

She has attracted funds of more than ten million euros, independently managing all human, technical and financial resources related to them. Since 2016, she has coordinated the trans-national ESPAD (European School Survey on Alcohol and other Drugs ESPAD) study involving 49 countries in the European area and EMCDDA in monitoring addiction risk behaviors among adolescents.

During 2022 she conceived developed and coordinated on behalf of the Presidency of the Council-Department of Anti-Drug Policies (DPA) the work on the drafting of the National Action Plan Addictions PAND. The process was developed through a participatory method, which involved more than 300 actors: 271 Experts, representing all the main players in the articulated world of Addiction, who actively collaborated throughout the process by interacting with each other in Working Tables and through a purpose-built web platform, and more than 30 representatives of Central Administrations, Regions, Local Authorities, and representatives of national organizations of Public and Private Addiction Services, who took part in the Consultation Tables.

RESEARCH ACTIVITIES

The crucial element of her research is to bring different disciplines into dialogue with the aim of pursuing the integration of different expertise and heterogeneous data sources. One of the major strands of applied research followed over the years is geared toward drawing the greatest possible density of knowledge, both quantitative and qualitative, from the information already existing in the available databases and specialized archives, with the ultimate goal of increasing and qualifying actions referred to public health.

It is also involved in designing and conducting numerous studies and disseminating the results through innovative ways.

The main lines of research can be summarized in 3 main areas:

POPULATION STUDIES FOR MONITORING HEALTH RISK BEHAVIORS IN HIDDEN POPULATIONS (e.g., individuals with substance use disorders, pathological gamblers) The study of hidden populations has always been its main interest. To estimate their prevalence, he has developed ad hoc surveys and ecological studies from the integration of different data sources. To understand disease trajectories and patterns, he uses interactive tools for participatory research.

DEVELOPMENT OF ANALYSIS MODELS FOR THE PUBLIC HEALTH SYSTEM AND PRECISION MEDICINE Thanks to the interdisciplinary nature of her research group, it has been possible to develop her skills in the integrated use of data from heterogeneous sources (standard health streams and clinical data extracted from patient history from imaging or self-reported by citizens/patients) to analyze the disease process seen as a continuum from the pre-clinical phase of risk to disease, in addition to classical methods he uses artificial intelligence tools in order to improve the effectiveness of the care pathway. The goal is to develop replicable analysis models for health policy planning.

HEALTH POLICY EVALUATION THROUGH INNOVATIVE ECONOMETRIC MODELS. The area of policy impact evaluation is the most recent challenge she has undertaken. The main goal is to combine the expertise developed on the study of hidden populations, those related to models of care pathway analysis and health policies with impact evaluation, the goal is to develop a language that allows fluent communication between the worlds of economics and epidemiology in order to give policy makers elements for evidence-based evaluation.

Media Outreach

Over the past 5 years, she has actively participated in numerous scientific discussions within television programs on national networks (Rai Parlamento, Tg Leonardo, Medicina 33, etc.). She has been interviewed on topics related to the findings of her studies in national and regional news programs (Rai1, RaiNews, Tg24, Rai3, etc.), with over 20 appearances in 2023 alone. She has contributed to numerous in-depth discussions on major national radio stations and various industry podcasts. The study results have also generated hundreds of articles in both national and local newspapers, along with numerous interviews.
