

Enrico Bonadio

Enrico Bonadio is Reader at City, University of London. He teaches, lectures and advises in the field of intellectual property (IP) law.

His current research agenda focuses on – inter alia – the intersection between IP and technology as well as copyright protection of non-conventional forms of creativity. He has attracted funds from a variety of institutions, including the European Commission, Australian Research Council, UK Research and Innovation, UK Economic and Social Research Council, and the UK Higher Education Innovation Funding. He is also Deputy Editor in Chief of the European Journal of Risk Regulation.

Enrico has been delivering classes and talks in more than 110 universities and institutions around the world. He is Visiting Professor at Keio University (Tokyo), Université Catholique de Lyon, University of Ankara (Turkey) and several other institutions. He has been Visiting Scholar at the University of Melbourne (2013), CUNY Law School (New York, 2016), University of Tel Aviv (2018 and 2019) and Hokkaido University (2019).

Enrico frequently appears in the media as an IP expert. His research has been covered by CNN, Wall Street Journal, Financial Times, Washington Post, New York Times, Reuters, South China Morning Post, BBC, Times, Guardian, Independent, Associated Press, El País, Corriere della Sera, Sole 24 Ore and The Conversation, amongst other media outlets.

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Enrico Bonadio". The signature is written in a cursive, flowing style.