SUMMARY

I am currently Consultant Cardiologist at the Fondazione Toscana Gabriele Monasterio and Affiliate Researcher at the Scuola Superiore Sant'Anna, Pisa. As a former undergraduate and PhD student at the Scuola Sant'Anna, as well as working at the Fondazione Monasterio, I have focused my research interests on the pathophysiology of heart failure, spanning from the role of neural control on cardiac (dys)function to the study of circulating biomarkers of profibrotic pathways. During my joint PhD (Université Sorbonne, Paris & Scuola Sant'Anna, Pisa), I have developed skills in basic research which I am currently performing in Pisa (with the facilities of the Centro di Biomedicina Sperimentale), so that my original research activity is now ranging from the molecular effects of sacubitril/valsartan in a murine model of left ventricular systolic dysfunction to the investigation of the prognostic significance of cardiac biomarkers from large randomized clinical trials. Furthermore, I have been working on several research projects, some of which based on multicentre collaborations and funded by national and international agencies, aimed to investigate the epidemiology, novel diagnostic (based on both biomarkers and imaging tools), and therapeutic strategies in cardiac amyloidosis. In addition, I developed a keen interest on the mechanisms of disease progression in cardiac amyloidosis, with special reference to neurohormonal activation and fibrosis, that I am currently studying applying, among others, also genomic and proteomic approaches.

During the last few years I have also contributed to the set up of several national and international scientific collaborations with some of the most renowned groups in the field of heart failure (e.g. Alain Cohen Solal and Alexandre Mebazaa, Paris; Antoni Bayes-Genis and Josep Lupon, Barcelona; James L Januzzi, Boston). Further, I am actively participating to the initiatives of the European Society of Cardiology, as a Founder and Core Nucleus member of the Heart Failure Specialists of Tomorrow Committee and, more recently, as a member of several Study Groups and Committees.

I am also involved in educational activities at the University of Pisa (Dpt. of Physics) and at the Scuola Superiore Sant'Anna (undergraduate and PhD courses, 2nd Level Master in Clinical Pathophysiology and Management of Heart Failure), and I am serving as advisor for undergraduate and PhD students of both the University of Pisa and Scuola Sant'Anna. I am currently holding Italian National Qualification as Associate Professor (SSD 06/D1).

I am author of 141 peer-reviewed articles published on national and international Journals (Scopus H-index 22), editor of one book; 35% of papers published in the top 10% Journal by CiteScore; 20% of papers in the top 10% most cited worldwide (years 2016-2021; source Scopus SciVal).
